

Marsha Maytum begins new role as Principal Emeritus

As the new year begins, I will begin a new role as Principal Emeritus at Leddy Maytum Stacy Architects. I will continue to serve as an advisor and mentor to the firm and continue advocacy efforts for the environment and social justice. I am transitioning to this new role due to my ALS diagnosis and progression in the last year. As I close this chapter of my career, I would like to express my deep gratitude to the many colleagues, clients, consultants and contractors I have had the privilege of collaborating with over these many years. I am especially grateful to and inspired by Bill Leddy, Richard Stacy, and everyone in our firm (present and past) for their commitment to the power of design to make the world a better place. I am confident that they will continue to practice with purpose and lead the way to an equitable, sustainable, and carbon positive future.

Wishing you the very best in the new year.
